

SACRED COD STILL MISSING; CAN. BILGH THREATENS ARREST

LAW CITATION
FAILS TO BARE
CULPRIT

Barber Shops and Florists Checked but No Cod

Only one trail went unheeded today in the search for the missing sacred cod of Massachusetts. Worried detectives found no trace of footprints. It seems that no member of the placatorial tribe leaves footprints.

THIEF INTOXICATED

Even threats of arrest; citations of law that the missing cod witnessed in the making; official inquiry among Harvard Lampones nor a score of other usual angles to a deep-dyed mystery brought the return of Sir—or is it Lady—Cod to the scullied position once held. The thief was intoxicated... badly in need of a shave... wore brown clothing... had curly hair. Such was the most promising clue. Reporters checked on barber shops. They never realized that so many drinks—with brown suits—dropped into barber shops for shaves. Discouraging was a mild word with which to describe the search.

THIEVES KNOWN, SAYS BLIGH

There was the report of a man with a flower box big enough to shroud the stolen cod. Lillian protruded from one end. Was it the funeral of the sacred cod? Were the blues on the chest?

These were but a few of the questions that went unanswered today.

Capt. Thomas E. Bligh, who recently headed a board of inquiry on part of the state police investigation, solemnly announced that he would give the culprit or culprits until tomorrow noon to return the cod.

Reporters for afternoon newspapers thanked him. It would be returned for their editions.

"It is a serious offense to take state property," Capt. Bligh said.

Harvard Lampones declined any knowledge of the theft. In fact, they appeared worried. They said they once planned such a coup, but abandoned the idea.

LAW'S MIGHTY ARM SUBDUES STRIKER

Patrick Ruddy, a battling leather striker, was quickly subdued at Salem when police swung into action to curb disturbances. A small-sized riot got underway at one of the leather plants and when police rushed to the scene,

Ruddy turned his attention to the bluecoats. A stiff battle took place before officers of the law succeeded in taking Ruddy through the streets to the police station. (Boston American Photo.)

FATHER AND SON
HEED AFTER
BEER RAID

Dry Agents Find Big Wildcat Brewery in Reverse

A Reverse man and his father will be in federal court today and federal dry agents expect to arrest two other men in connection with the seizure of an illegal brewing plant in Liberty ave., North Revere. Talino M. Breda, of Salem at North Revere, was arrested by dry agents when they entered the plant. He was held in $1000 bail for appearance today. His father, Marcia B. Breda, of Salem at North Revere, was arrested and appeared in court at the same time.

Discovery of the place came when dry agents smelled beer and saw an amber colored fluid seeping into Liberty ave. from a two-story wooden building in the rear of the Breda home.

Externally it appeared to be a poultry farm and agents found that it really did house turkeys, chickens and ducks. However, it also housed 18,000 gallons of beer ready for bottling, 2000 bottles of beer bearing fancy labels of Canadian brands, 20 15-gallon barrels, corn-filled, and a quantity of other supplies, malt and other accessories.

The beer, according to federal men, was brewed in a 50-gallon copper kettle on the second floor, the steam coming from a floor boiler. The beer passed from the kettle into a cooling tank and from there to four wooden vats of 500 gallons each.

The agents declared that the younger Breda was at work in the plant when they entered.

Wealthy Harvard Grad
Seeks Reno Decree

Action on the divorce petition brought yesterday in Reno, Nev., by LeBaron R. Barker, Jr., of Brookline, wealthy young Harvard graduate and member of a Boston publishing house, is expected today, according to reports received here.

Barker, who was married a few days after he was graduated from Harvard, in June, 1928, filed suit for divorce in Reno, yesterday, against Mrs. Mary Bell Barker, charged with adultery.

AGREE ON ALIMONY
With the application for divorce he filed a copy of an agreement, under which he is to pay Mrs. Barker alimony and provide for the support of their two children, who are to remain in the custody of the mother, according to the reports.

Mrs. Barker is the former Mary Bell Pope, daughter of Prof. A. J. Pope of the fine arts department of Harvard. The couple were married June 30, 1928, at the Church of St. John the Evangelist in Brookline.

Barker, who now makes his home in 100 Brookline ave., is the son of Mr. and Mrs. LeBaron R. Barker of Plymouth. He was prominent in athletic and social activities at Harvard. He was opening at $5.00.

Child Star Gives His 'Consent'; Groom Is Film Executive

By LOVELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service

Portland, Me., (By Universal Service.)—Hollywood, April 28.—The pretty young mother of Jackie Cooper, Mrs. Mabel Cooper, will be married Sunday to Charles Huggett, of Chicago.

Jackie, who in the past looked over his mother's shoulders with a critical, disapproving eye, has given his consent. Moreover, he thinks the new parent is a great guy and he is happy to have such a good pal.

The bride-to-be and her prospective husband will motor to the Gracie Green where on many wedding ceremonies have been performed. Mrs. Ida Greenman, executive secretary to Louis R. Mayne, will be matron of honor.

Dollar Improves in London

London, April 28 (AP).—The dollar and franc exchange continued today to be influenced by President Roosevelt's talks in Washington and the British government's exchange equalization fund. Opening at the rate of $27 1/2 to the pound against yesterday's $27 1/2, the dollar advanced to $27 3/4, on covering or trade demand. The franc advanced to $27 1/2. The French franc improved to $27 1/2 from the pound after it was opening at $26.00.

149 Known Dead in Earthquake Zone

Istanbul, April 28 (AP).—The known death toll reached 149 last night as a search of the ruins of buildings wrecked in last Sunday's earthquake neared an end. It was considered unlikely that many other bodies were still in the ruins. The number of injured remained at 600.

Birmingham, Ala., April 28 (AP).—The nine Scottsboro case Negroes were on a bread and water diet today, after a jail mutiny. "The rebelled in the room," where they had been taken for exercise, threatened their guards with clubs improvised from water pipes and light fixtures, and refused to return to the quarters. They said their rebellion was against mistreatment.

The men are accused of having attacked two white women in a case that has attracted international attention.

Garden Ewins said they would be sentenced to death, was the leader of the rebellion. The mutiny, he said, apparently was due to resentment over their being locked in a separate room on visitors' day.

Chief in blue jumps and jeans like any other locomotive engineer, the Rev. Eugene D. Dolloff, pastor of the West Medford Baptist Church, played fireman on a Boston & Maine locomotive and took the 4-4-2 from Boston to Pittsburgh and return to secure first-hand information for a sermon to be held later.

Dr. Dolloff secured a special permit from the general superintendent of the road, borrowed his "uniform" from an engineer friend and while the overall was a bit too large, he pinned them up and fired the locomotive on its round trip.

He left Boston at 8:25 a. m. on the train in charge of Conductor Walter Hancock, who is also a Medford resident. At Ayer Junction, where a stop of 18 minutes was made, the pastor-dreamer was introduced to railroad workers and to the remote control switching mechanism in use there. Reaching Pittsburgh at 8:25, Dr. Dolloff had just time to jump from the cab of the westbound train to climb into the cab of the eastbound train, which arrived at North Station at 10:30.

A break like this one pops up just once a season. It's our special bid for new business. Shrewd buyers know this! It's their signal to step in and carry out a suit of clothes which would ordinarily cost many more dollars.

For this event, we deliberately feature fabrics which you know by name—and reputation—as established leaders in their class. This permits easy and fair comparison; and convincing proof of exactly how much you'll save. You'll easily recognize the firm, smooth texture of these woollens. You'll quickly associate them with higher priced suits. That's why this event is always a complete sell-out!

Our Spring "sacrifice hit" starts today. Come and see! Just bring along the desire for a really fine suit of clothes, and very few dollars. And be prepared for a rare treat, all round.

N. Y. PRAYER FOR ROOSEVELT

New York, April 28 (U.S.)—Here is the prayer for civil authorities which Cardinal Hayes has asked pastors to offer in the Catholic churches of the archdiocese of New York for the observance of President's Day Sunday:

"We pray Thee, O God of might, wisdom and justice, through whom authority is rightly administered, laws are enacted and judgment decreed, assist with Thy holy spirit of counsel and fortitude the President of these United States, that his administration may be conducted in righteousness and be eminently useful to Thy people, ever whom he presides, by encouraging respect for virtue and religion; by a faithful execution of the laws of justice and mercy; and by restraining vice and immorality.

"Let the light of Thy divine wisdom direct the deliberations of Congress and shine forth in all the proceedings and laws framed for our rule and government; so that they may tend to the preservation of peace, the promotion of national happiness, the increase of industry, sobriety and useful knowledge, and may perpetuate to us the blessings of equal liberty."

Children's Theater to End Season

The Children's Theater at Emerson College will close its fourteenth season, tomorrow afternoon with a repeat performance of "Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy."

The play is from the story by Johnny Gruelle. The title roles will be Ann, King Loney and his subjects, the Pirate Chief and his band and all the doll friends of Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy will be on hand to entertain the child audience.

Gilchrist Workers Hold Spring Dance

HOW TO RECAPTURE BEAUTY

Good looks are often a matter of good health. Sparkling eyes and a smooth complexion are outward signs of an abundant vitality.

To be charming, conserve your health. Guard against constipation. It not only brings wrinkles, sallow skins, dull eyes, pimples.

Try the pleasant "cereal way" to protect yourself from constipation. Science has proved that Kellogg's ALL-BRAN provides "bulk" to expand the intestines, and vitamin B to tone the intestinal tract. ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron, which helps build up the blood.

The "bulk" in this delicious cereal is much like that of lettuce. How much safer than abusing your system with pills and drugs—so often habit-forming.

Two tablespoons daily will correct most types of constipation. If not relieved this way, see your doctor.

AIRMAIL VET IS SAFE IN CRASH

Middlebush, N. J., April 28 (AP).—Ambrose M. Banks, veteran mail and transport pilot, who had the big scare of his life one foggy night a few years ago, when he nearly crashed into the busy dirigible Los Angeles, joined the Caterpillar Club here.

Fifteen hundred feet over the Lincoln Highway, the motor of the motor of the Army observation plane he was piloting on an Army photography assignment, caught fire. He maneuvered to another plane, the ship just altitude rapidly, smoke got in his eyes so that he could not see to land.

At 800 feet, he signaled his companion, Lieut. George Head, of Norwich, N. Y., to jump. This he jumped himself. They landed a few hundred yards apart on the Burdum property. The plane crashed into a patch of woods bordering a field on a farm.

GEN. E. L. LOGAN IMPROVES

Considerable improvement has been noted in the condition of Lieut.-Gen. Edward L. Logan, who has been confined at the New England Hospital, Parker Hill, Boston, since last Saturday with a serious stomach ailment.

Attaches at the hospital reported he was resting "very comfortably." It is expected he will be able to see friends in a few days.

NEEDLES FLY MERRILY

Click! Click! Click! The great Knitting Marathon is on at Gilchrist's. Seventy-eight contestants are off with needles flashing, zips flying. Seventy-eight women, each one no doubt the champion of her own club or knitting group, are competing for the prizes offered by Gilchrist's. An electric radio goes to the woman who completes her shawl first. A Priscilla knitting cabinet goes to the contestant who turns out the best looking garment. The contest started at 2 o'clock Wednesday, and will continue from 2 to 4 Fridays and Wednesdays until the winners are acclaimed.

Not since war days, when everyone was sewing shirts for soldiers, has there been such a revived interest in this great American indoor sport. The contestants, themselves, are in real earnest and it is most fascinating to watch them. A great deal of speculation

Do YOU who never TRUSTED HASH

BACK in your mind there's a vague idea that under certain rare circumstances hash can be a glorious dish, but somehow you don't trust it, as a rule; fear it's made of scraps; sort of thrown together anyhow.

Well then, here is how Prudence Corned Beef Hash is made, by an old New England recipe in a spotless New England kitchen. Only young, tender beef is used; an exact proportion of lean and fat meat; no scraps, no skin, no gristle.

After the meat is boiled and cooled, it is removed from the pot and the fat skimmed off the water. Then, in this same savory water, carefully selected white, mealy potatoes are boiled. Mighty few housewives today won't "take such trouble; not to talk of a big meat factory."

Add to the emergency shelf in your pantry a few cans of Prudence Beef Stew and Prudence Lamb Stew. They are mighty good. Both Hash and Stews come in 4-Portion and 2-Portion cans.

PROF. VAUGHN TO LECTURE

A series of lectures on present day social problems will begin Monday morning at Wells Memorial Hall under the auspices of the Workers' Assembly, 22 a movement for just action by non-violent means. Prof. David Vaughn of Boston University will be the speaker Sunday on "Programs of Social Reconstruction."

On succeeding Sundays the following speakers will appear in this order, each dealing with some phase of social conflict: Dr. L. O. Hartman, well known liberal journalist; Dean C. K. Ralston, of Tufts; Richard Gregg, leading authority on India, and G. W. Goodwin, of the Boston Urban League. Hathi Levi and other prominent civic leaders will appear on later programs.

Hurley, Swift Praise Plan for President's Day

As time draws near for the observance of "President's Day" next Sunday, thousands of persons throughout the country are planning to participate in the tribute to President Roosevelt.

In every hamlet, town and city throughout the United States, men, women and children will reverently kneel in prayer and thanksgiving in behalf of the Chief Executive. Thanks will be offered for the exceptional leadership he has displayed in bringing order from chaos. Prayers will come from the lips of the vast throng, asking that he may be spared to complete his vast program in the interest of the nation and its people.

An impressive radio program in honor of "President's Day" has been arranged for tonight by the Boston Sunday Advertiser, during the course of which the President's virtues will be extolled. The program will begin at 7 o'clock and continue for half an hour over station WEEL.

BACON, CURLEY, COHAN TALK
Speakers will include Lieut.-Gov. Bacon, Mayor Curley and George M. Cohan, stage star, producer and playwright. A musical program will be given by Mel Stoller's orchestra under the baton of its clever leader, Eliot Daniel. So if you want a real thrill tonight be sure to tune in on WEEL at 7 o'clock.

Among the latest commendations of "President's Day," as advocated by the Boston American and other Boston newspapers, are those of State Treasurer Charles F. Hurley and Atty. John E. Swift of Suffolk supreme court.

State Treasurer Hurley said: "I am pleased to endorse the movement of the Boston American papers to set aside Sunday as President's Day."
NATION'S HOPE
"Our municipal, state and national governments have developed the custom recently of devoting certain days to particular causes. This generally takes the form of a public reminder of the worthiness of some cause which is officially specified. All of these causes are worthy, some important. Certainly President's

Day is important. "At this particular time, the will being and the hope of the people are instinctively bound up with the life of one man: the President. Face to face with an economic and financial crisis of unprecedented magnitude, the country has sensed the character and genius of the President, and has concentrated into his hands most unusual powers, firm in the belief that he can and will lead us out. We have freely given him almost unlimited power over our most cherished rights and privileges. America stands or falls with the President."

"But merely to call this day 'President's Day' means nothing. It seems to me that this day of devotion is either a call to action or it is an empty gesture. Something is expected of us in actual practice. Surely, in this time of awful crisis, we must unite our minds and hearts in his. Surely, we must deliberately make a net of faith, as one united people, in this course and marvelous ability of our common leader."

"Surely, we must pray to the God of us all, that He will continue to keep our President in wisdom and in health. In a word, to my mind, this is the real significance of President's Day. It is the day on which the people of this great country should raise their minds to God, to ask His blessing on the man whom we have chosen, under God, to be our leader."

SWIFT'S TRIBUTE
Atty. Swift said: "During the efforts of the Boston American next Sunday in selected as a day on which the American people will unite in paying tribute to their President and leader. "The protection of human life, the advancement of all the activities of our people, the maintenance of economic, industrial, civil and religious liberty and the

On the program are Mayor Curley, Lieut.-Gov. Gaspar Bacon, George M. Cohan, Eliot Daniel, musical director of the Stollers Orchestra; Willie Morris, WEEL soloist and Newcomb F. Thompson, Boston American radio editor, who will direct the program for the Boston Sunday Advertiser.

FIRST 'JUNIOR MASTER' OUT

The first issue of "The Junior Master," a new monthly publication in the interests of "the high school men of Boston," is out today, the official organ of the Junior Masters Association.

In the first issue the lead story is devoted to the organization of the junior masters, an organization whose activities the Boston Evening American has detailed from time to time, only in the fact of the organization itself from other sources.

The board of editors is made up of William J. Roche, editor; Philip Marston, associate editor; Charles E. Schroeder, business manager, and the following assistant editors: John J. Riley, legislative; Edward J. Golden, departmental; Robert F. Denver, news; Everett J. Conway, literary; Nathaniel J. Hennessey, educational; Francis P. Hennessey, statistical; and Paul J. Thayer, secretary to the board.

Cleanup Campaign Finishes House

Brookline, April 28—Andrew T. Monahan was a rather discouraged young man today. Monahan, with all the care that a man puts into a house that he finishes himself, ordered workmen to clear up the left over rubbish and burn it in a stove on the second floor. The stove became overheated and the house caught fire. The damage was $2800.

Beer Sellers Ask Cut in License Fee

Brookline, April 28—Sixteen or seventeen that sell the so-called beer, announced today they will seek a further reduction to $50 on the annual license to sell the beverage. The fee already has been cut from $200 to $100.

CATHOLICS BOW TO HITLER

Boston, April 28 (UP)—The German Catholic Church will officially declare its solidarity with the Hitler government in a few days, it is learned from an authoritative source.

Representatives of the German Protestant Churches have announced achievement of "complete unity" between the government's wishes and their intentions concerning establishment of a single Protestant State Church.

It is understood the Catholic bishops are persuaded it is futile to oppose the trend of nationalization and that they will unite in a proclamation retracting all existing measures in force against the Nazis. This is interpreted as complete capitulation of the Catholic Central party to the new government.

The Alpege Temple Shrine circus opens its three-day engagement today at Boston Arena, with Col. Carroll Swan acting as ringmaster.

There will be two performances daily, at 2 and 8 p. m., with a special free act outside the arena preceding the show. In this free performance Lorena Carver and her famous diving board will put on a spectacular high diving act.

On Saturday morning there will be an old-time circus parade from the arena along Massachusetts ave. to Columbus ave., to Arlington st., to Beacon st., to Massachusetts ave., to the Arena.

Leslie Gov. Gaspar Bacon will act as ringmaster on Saturday, with ex-Mayor Malcolm Nicholas doing the honors on Sunday, the closing day of the circus.

fore, but this is the first time she has ever been in the money. Proof of the popularity of smoked shoulder is attested by the hundreds and hundreds of favorite recipes which the $100.00 in cash prize money drew "out of hiding." The judges were amazed at the almost limitless number of new and interesting ways of serving the shoulder that comes in the familiar red and white checked wrapper—from Leadership road right down through a tempting array of soups, leftover dishes, appetizing sandwiches, scallops, loaves, rarebits and salads.

Money Easy as Technocracy

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER.

We have finally figured out this inflation jigger. The purchasing power of your dollar is reduced. The borrowing value is the same. When you ask a pal to pay it back that's when deflation starts in.

You lose a friend and $4 cents. Thus saving 16 per cent on the transaction.

Going off the gold standard doesn't mean a thing to us birds who were never on it.

There's nothing to worry about. Just remember that technocracy arrived and departed before anybody had a chance to explain it.

Here's a pictorial example for the little ones. We're on a boat anchored firmly to rock bottom. The monetary system is the cable. As the tide swings us around we must take up the slack in the rope.

—But one man in Hollywood learned the secret of Lord Lomax's love: "Premiere" is a story of the glamorous movie star—Don't miss it in the Boston American beginning Tuesday, May 2.

Darling, I haven't the faintest suspicion he's getting tired of you. But ... how about your cooking?

Oh, Aunt Alice, I try so hard! ... Last night the pie crust was terribly tough ... It was your recipe, too.

But did you try that new easy-to-use shortening I suggested?

Well you get some this very day, and try another pie. Notice how 'springy' the dough is when you roll it out. That's what makes Formay pastry so flaky.

No! I haven't got my Formay yet.

I want you to try a Formay cake, too. This new shortening cooks faster than any I've ever had before. And it makes the lightest, fluffiest cakes!

And I've been meaning to tell you about deep-frying. Give Bill some French fried potatoes, too. Heat the Formay to 395°. It fries perfectly, without making a bit of smoke or odor.

Another thing. For twenty years I've made good biscuits if I say so myself. But never such good ones as I'm making now with Formay.

Thanks so much, Aunt Alice. I'm going to get my Formay right now!

Darling, this pie crust is the kind I've dreamed of. How'd you do it?

One of those secrets women should never confess. But ... from now on I promise to be a better cook.

8 ADVANTAGES TO HELP YOU

- 1 It is the FASTEST CREAMING shortening.
- 2 Makes LIGHTER, finer-grained cakes; FLUFFIER biscuits.
- 3 FLAKIER pie crusts from "springier" dough.
- 4 Stands HIGHER deep-frying temperatures without smoking.
- 5 A shortening that is REALLY PURE.
- 6 TASTELESS, ODBORLESS even when melted.
- 7 STAYS FRESH, is most convenient to use, at room temperature. Do not put in ice box.
- 8 AS EASY to digest as butter.

Formay is the exclusive product of Swift & Company. There is no other shortening like it. ... Your grocer or market man has Formay in 1, 2, 3, and 6 lb. tins.

JUDGE BLAMES PARENTS

After listening to several parents of small boys who were before him in juvenile court in Malden, Judge Elbridge G. Davis severely criticized the parents for not knowing where their sons were and what they were doing during the night when they were stealing autos.

Five boys, all under 16 years of age, who were before him for taking autos in Malden, Melrose and Wakefield, were given suspended sentences to the Shirley School.

License Is Banned, Beer Goes Free

Refused a permit by the Malden licensing commission for the sale of beer at a night club, Charles E. Mason, proprietor of a club at 186 Ferry st., Malden, retaliated by serving free beer to all of its patrons of the club last night. He declares he will continue to serve free beer to patrons for a time, at least. Mason is a brother of Pauline Mason, the actress wife of Skeets Gallagher of picture stardom. He has been in the business for many years and has been in the business for many years and has been in the business for many years.

MISSING MILTON HEIRESS THOUGHT MARRIED

BEACH PARTY IS BARED IN SUIT FOR SUPPORT

Mrs. Wise Wins Children Despite Charge of Unfaithfulness

Custody of her two children and $6 weekly for their support has been awarded to Mrs. Goldie Wise of Lynn by Judge Alden B. White of Salem Probate Court.

Mrs. Wise sought separate support on grounds of desertion and in a cross-petition her husband, William Wise of Beverly charged unfaithfulness. Judge White dismissed this petition on the grounds that the charge had not been substantiated.

LYNN MAN NAMED

Wise charged his wife with being unduly intimate with Israel Furie, 48, Lynn laundryman, and one-time friend of the family. He is suing Furie for $50,000 charging alienation of affections.

After listening to considerable evidence yesterday Judge White declared he would grant custody of the children to Mrs. Wise and ordered Wise to contribute $6 weekly for their support.

Wise had testified to learning of his wife's love for Furie and that she admitted it when he asked them about it. He said he hired a detective to watch them and that on the night of Feb. 1 the detective called him and took him to the Revue Beach Parkway at Point of Pines.

DENY BEACH PARTY

He and his daughter Furie and his wife in a parked car and said they were hugging and kissing. The detective, George Carlson, of Salem, substantiated the story. Both admitted they had seen nothing improper.

Furie and Mrs. Wise both took the stand and denied any intimacy. They said they had been parked at the place mentioned but they had not hugged or kissed.

Wise testified he left his wife that night and went to live in Beverly.

Boys likewise succeeded to all other class offices from the election of Richard L. Passet, Jr., as president of the senior class down to the executive committee alternates in the freshmen.

Richard Bell of St. Louis Mo., sprinting champion, was elected to lead the Junior Water Polo Stockmayer of Rutherford, N. J., the sophomore, and Philip G. Rupp of Rahoboth, the freshman.

Food on Gloucester Death Yacht Analyzed in Probe

Reports on tests of canned goods, food and samples of air taken from the yacht La Breeze in Gloucester harbor in the probe of the death of Walter M. Stockmayer of Rutherford, N. J., the sophomore, and Philip G. Rupp of Rahoboth, the freshman.

Although the men were believed to have died of poisonous poisoning from eating tainted food, Chief Casey yesterday expressed the suspicion eating also might have caused death. He is of the opinion that the chemical tests will develop a situation which will call for autopsy to be performed on the bodies of the victims, Paul Morrison of Lowell and Capt. William Jackson of Gloucester.

Roblin is making the tests. He received the canned goods and food from Gloucester police. The samples of air were taken from the yacht's forecastle and a cabin aboard the vessel.

True to Type

By GILBERT SELDES

The fight fans who are wondering whether they ought to boycott Max Schmeling's next appearance ought to meet Mr. John Corbin who, being an intellectual, is too proud to boycott, but goes ever-so-gently Hitler in the current issue of a magazine and suggests that the terrible condition of the stage in America is due to the fact that the Theatre Guild produces the works of those two notable Hebrew patriarchs, George Bernard Shaw and Eugene O'Neill. It takes more than an Irish name to mislead Mr. Corbin—he says so himself—and he knows that "the artistic bent of the (Theatre) Guild is corrosive, vitriolic—the bent of a critic detached and uprooted"—in short, the characteristic qualities of the Jew as shown in the "corrosive intellect" of Mr. Shaw and the "egotism" of Mr. O'Neill. I am aware that all this sounds too silly to be true, but the fact is that Mr. Corbin's article has these headlines: "The Jew has come to dominate the dramatic art of Broadway. Corrosive, vitriolic, animated by the spirit of a separate minority, the intellectual theater has now given itself over to the drama of acid intelligence." Mr. Corbin politely deplores, names the Theatre Guild as the dominant Jewish organization, and can mention only Shaw and O'Neill as the Guild's playwrights. Those other sturdy patriarchs of Israel—Sidney Howard, Philip Barry, St. John Ervine, John Masefield, Jacinto Benavente, Leo Tolstoy and Paul Claudel—are all neglected. Even Rabl A. A. Milne doesn't get his name in.

GILBERT SELDES

For the Record

Mr. Corbin's point, I take it, is that the Jew dominates the work of Jews; non-Jews have produced works of the same general order; the plays are direct parallels to novels and social criticism written by protesting (or at least born) Christians. And Mr. Corbin, to make his point, has gone back to Houston Stewart Chamberlain, the Englishman turned German, who discovered the virtues of the Germanic races and gave intellectual Hitlerism its start. For myself I prefer the open, comparatively friendly attack on the boycotters. It is the air of innuendo and intellectual examination which makes supercilious racial prejudice so displeasing.

Heil Without Maria!

The infernal regions cropped up in his mind—and the speech—of ex-Vice-President Dawes the other day when, harried by school teachers who hadn't received a cent in pay for months, he cried out, "to hell with trouble makers." It is a sentiment which the whole of Chicago, where the school teachers are becoming a little impatient, and the rest of the country will echo. It only remains to discover who the troublemakers actually are.

Obviously, the school teachers are first on the list because in stead of teaching school, they go parading around asking for money. One has ever heard of a school teacher having money, or believed a school teacher needed money, but in very little and persuade their pupils that money isn't everything. Mr. Dawes has put them in their place.

Let Them Eat Cake

He might well have pointed out to the teachers that, although they have no money they are better off than many people who have neither money nor jobs. Teachers have the right to come to school every morning and go through their work like little endurers, while out in the streets thousands of unemployed and intelligent men would be glad to take their place. Mr. Dawes showed rare self-restraint when he failed to make a long speech in these terms.

Other trouble-makers exist. The gentlemen who eat in high places and get away with financial murder (before starting out for Greece) owe a note of thanks to the millions who could have made trouble and didn't. Apparently they stand for three years. Now they'd like a kind word and a few promises, but alone a little back pay. And Mr. Dawes knows how to answer them.

1933's GREATEST DRAMA of HUMANITY!

Lionel BARRYMORE
in CLARENCE BROWN'S Production

When 1933 is ended and the public looks back in its memory for the year's great pictures, this drama will be remembered most kindly of all! No wonder that, when President Roosevelt saw this picture he permitted the producers to use the title of his book "Looking Forward."

Gripping story indeed . . . reaching into your soul with its power and realism.

PICKWICK ALE

A STATEMENT OF FACT

In view of certain statements which have been made concerning the low alcoholic content of beer, we believe that the following facts should be published with regard to PICKWICK ALE:

From a series of analyses made by competent chemists of the last twenty brews of PICKWICK ALE, the average alcoholic content by volume is shown to be 3.84%.

Every effort is being made to maintain the alcoholic content of PICKWICK ALE as close to the legal maximum as the practical requirements of brewing will permit.

HARVARD CHOICE IN STADIUM TRACK GAMES

B. C. HOPES HIGH IN TRACK AND FIELD GAMES TODAY

The fourth annual Greater Boston track and field games open at the Harvard Stadium this afternoon with trials in all variety and freestyle events except the mile and two-mile runs, which will be held as finals tomorrow afternoon. The field events which begin at 2:30 o'clock precede the running events by a half hour.

Although Harvard is a favorite to win the third championship since the inauguration of the meet in 1930, Boston College's chances of cutting into the Crimson total were strengthened today when it was announced that Richard Bell, M. T. captain, will not compete in the meet.

3000 Enter U. of Penn Relays

Philadelphia, April 28 (AP)—There will be 3,000 athletes from East and Midwest colleges when the 25th University of Pennsylvania relay meet opens its two-day run of track and field events at the University of Pennsylvania stadium.

Harvard's entry among the lead in the 3,000 relay is the lead in the 3,000 relay. Harvard's entry among the lead in the 3,000 relay is the lead in the 3,000 relay.

HEAVY HANDED ALL-WEATHER SPORTS ARENA IS PLANNED

Copyright 1933, by Universal Service, Inc.

Mr. George Marshall, famous young Washington business man and sportsman, has interested himself in a project that is apt to completely revolutionize our current method of presenting sports events in the big cities of the United States.

The Dr. Sibur-Marshall all-weather stadium has just been duly recorded in the patent office in Washington for elaborate plans drawn by J. H. De Sibur, one of the most celebrated architects in the world.

The all-weather stadium is just that—a stadium to house sports events in any kind of weather with a seating capacity that puts it at least on a par with the largest of the open air stadiums. The stadium can be made an open air affair in pleasant weather by rolling back the roof.

MEMBERS OF B. C. FIFT

Bob was the 1932 winner and second holder of the 100 and 200 yard dashes. In both events he was chased to the tape in new record time by Johnny McManis. B. C. speedster, with help out of McManis has a chance of duplicating the performance of a year ago.

Phil Conkle, Boston College's 100 yard dasher, is expected to be a contender in the 100 yard dash. He is expected to be a contender in the 100 yard dash.

SWEET SINGER OF LAMAR POLES
ONE OUT
(Lamar, Me., Democrat)

Mrs. Shelby Willey, a recent bride, was the honoree of a surprise gift shower given her by ladies of the Presbyterian church. Among the many gifts was a lovely floor lamp which Mrs. H. W. Timmonds presented with the following verses:

LOVE LIGHTS
When poppy love enmeshes a pair
They race to see the light.
They love to frolic dance and sing
Beneath the brightest light.
When true love comes a happy pair
They pace the garden.
And find complete enchantment
In the moon's soft, mellow glow.
When marriage joins this loving pair

And a happy home is made,
The light they'll like the best of all
Is a floor lamp with a shade.

Very nice and it is left hanging
By girls who go for higher learning.

Q. and A. DEPARTMENT
Dear Annie B.:
I see where the W. C. T. U. ladies say beer will make trouble in the home. Do you think this is possible?

Worried.
Ans.—On the contrary, dearie, there is nothing like a good substantial beer bottle to stop trouble in the home.

Revaluing the Dollar

If Congress believes that a change in the gold content of the dollar is necessary, CONGRESS should fix the new value of the dollar.

It should not grant this power to the President. The proposal in the administration's inflation bill allowing the President, at his discretion, to change the gold value of the dollar to a maximum change of 50 per cent of its present gold backing, would be another and most improper surrender of the fundamental prerogatives of Congress.

The Congress cannot conscientiously abdicate any more of its powers to the President.

It is expressly stated in the Constitution that the Congress, and it alone, shall have power "to coin money" and "regulate the value thereof."

Suppose that the President is given this enormous power. There is no reason for questioning the whole-hearted desire of the President to fulfill in every respect the obligations and opportunities of his high office.

But granting him power to change the dollar's value at his sole discretion would create another period of damaging uncertainty for the whole business world.

No one would know for a certainty just what the new standard of value is in this country.

Essential lending, to municipalities, to states, to corporations, to individuals will be unnecessarily delayed.

A vast new and overwhelming doubt will invade the already stricken business of the country. Commerce will be the mercy of this great uncertainty concerning the true value of a "new dollar."

At what level shall contracts be made? Upon what basis shall wages be paid, and prices paid?

The Democrats in Congress, elected representatives of the majority of the people, cannot in this great emergency overlook their true obligations.

They must not surrender their constitutional rights.

The Democrats will have to account to the country for their stewardship of the Ship of State.

It is not a question of offending their party leader.

It is a much more vital problem which confronts the Democrats, constituting command of the Congress.

They are turning over to the President discretionary power over a problem which may cancel every bit of good that has been accomplished since the Democrats returned to power.

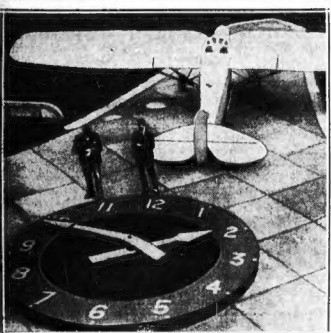

They can re-establish their constitutional authority over the money of the land by THEMSELVES setting the new standard of the gold dollar, if Congress deems such a step essential to the restoration of economic peace in the United States.

Congress must see the light.

Congress must be courageous.

A 'Watch for Fliers'

Many Inventions Will Develop for Those That Use the Air

GIANT ILLUMINATED WATCH THAT TELLS NIGHT FLIERS THE TIME

For thousands of years men have built lighthouses, to guide, warn and protect sailors at sea. Now they build other lighthouses, the light pointing upward to warn "sailors of the air" conducting ships far above the earth and the clouds.

Ever since clocks were invented huge dials have been located in towers and on public buildings to tell men that "wake up and down in the earth" the time of day.

Now, as you see, arrangements are made to let the night traveler in the air know the time of day by looking down toward the earth at his special clock.

This huge "clock for fliers," sixteen feet across, can be seen on a clear night by fliers far above the earth. It tells the time by day, also, of course.

Miraculous radio, developed by man almost simultaneously with the airplane, makes it possible to talk with those in the air, telling about the weather, storms, etc. Radiocasts all over the world are working on apparatus that give the flier his direction, height, landing places, etc. There has been recently developed the "radio beam," that enables a pilot to land his plane safely without seeing the ground, the cockpit in which he sits entirely covered. Col. Lindbergh recently made landings guided only by the "radio beam."

Innumerable other devices will develop, and suddenly the world will discover, to its amazement, that the SAFEST OF ALL TRAVEL IS BY AIR.

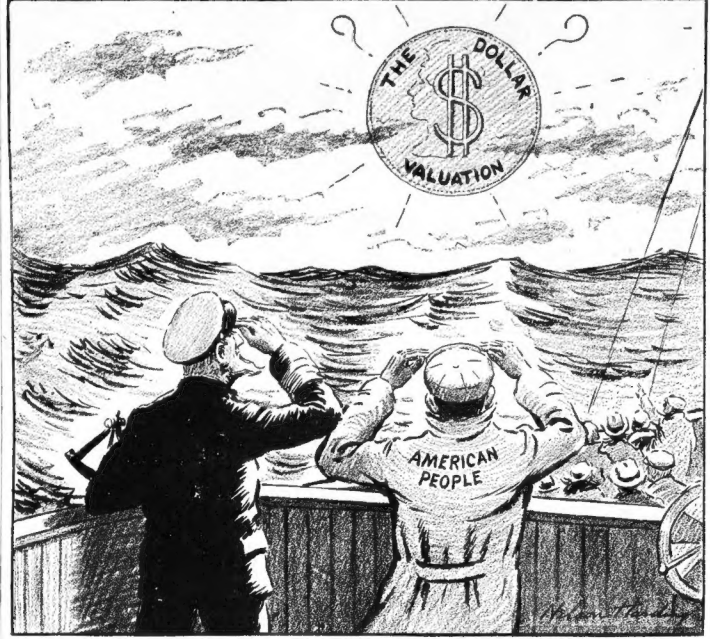

This big clock interests more than the far more important "radio beam" or any other scientific contrivance, because WE UNDERSTAND A WATCH while few of us understand science or its abstruse devices.

Fit for Marriage?

ONCE UPON a time the following letter would have belonged in a sob column. Now it's Front Page News, sharing importance with President Roosevelt's latest unemployment plans. And here's the letter: "I'm not about the old-fashioned, orange-wealth-and-tide, clinging-vine type of a bride whom Grandpa wooed and wedded back in 1883. Or Dad adored in 1903. No indeed! The lady under discussion is a brand new 1933 model—a 16-cylinder self-starter."

Briefly, those ideas well down to this wouldn't bridle, as well as to groom. We required to have a profession or trade, so they could do their share in carrying the family load?

And isn't it just as silly and reckless, in this day and age, for Romeo to marry a jobless Juliet as it would be for Juliet to marry a jobless Romeo?

DEAR MISS ROBINSON

A group of us—young men and women who all work in the same company—have been having an argument. It started when I began going with a certain young lady. She is a lovely girl, and would like to marry her, but here's the point—My new girl friend has never worked. She is 22 years old, and has always depended solely on her parents for support. She knows no profession or trade, and she would be utterly helpless if I died or lost my business means, or any way of understanding my life. Now, I'm deeply in love with this girl. To tell the truth, I can't think of anything else—and yet I'm forced to.

Naturally I suppose any regular fellow wants to support his wife. Most men still have a feeling of pride about that. But, as I said before, we are forced to look at things in the modern way, and I can't help thinking of what the consequences will be if I marry a girl like Mary. It seems to me that such a girl is actually a "big girl" in marriage—and none of my friends agree with me.

anyone save Britishers say "Cheerio." Nobody can look so wistful as Luella Gear. Or smile more genially. Business college night. "One new idea and you're made!" All right—gray-colored shirts with dinner clothes!

A short cut to "important" money on Broadway used to be the theatrical ticket brokerage shop. The big ones—McBride, Tyson, etc.—had from 15 to 20 mid-fire clerks answering a barrage of telephones. Many have shrunk to one or two clerks. In the golden era even the hole-in-the-wall operator netted $500 a day.

At sundown now and then along an upper reach of Park ave. Col. E. M. House strolls with two frisky Cairns, gifts incidentally from his long time friend, the late Will Hays. Col. House in his 70's has the pink complexion of youth and his solemn eyes are as clear as a bell. He was a sickly youth and his years have been a fight against invalidism, yet no other American has inconspicuously accomplished as much for his country. Or asked so little of it.

In the age of show offs and how stealers the somber attentiveness of House is conspicuous. Constantly hugging the shadows, he suggests a fortress of faintness. A gentleman who circumvents by gentleness. A celebrity who refuses to cede!

Recently I had tea in an Elsie DeWolfe decorated duplex in that apartment area once Millionaire Row. It is occupied by a moving picture attorney and expressed a grandeur in simplicity I have never seen in the French-modern decor. The only bizarre note was a tiger carpet up the circular stairway. The dining room by a process of indirect lighting gives the impression of golden sunshine. The master bedroom is in a quelling of light, indirectly lighted, and with an enormous bed that to my bourgeois mind suggested a morning romp with about a dozen dogs. Off this bedroom was a powder room entirely covered in the fragile dressing table and spindly chairs edged in chromium. In glancing over this I see no reason for not mentioning right out in the place was the apartment of the Robert Roberts.

After this peek into how the other half lives it was so cheerful to return to the slum. But in a way there was compensation. For in the most comfortable chair in a parkway a French modulator author was stretched out under a reading light enjoying a luscious romp with compensation. The "Wolf of Paris" and an enormous sign. What is more, he had removed both of his No. 11's, which is referred to in my crochets of the week as "favoring your feet."

Over Theft of Sacred Cod

By ROBERT E. ROGERS

We should like to believe that the whole United States is mourning with Massachusetts over the loss of the Sacred Cod. But something tells us that we live in another sample of that kind of razing the American press is prone to whenever it finds in the news something about Massachusetts—or more particularly, about Boston—which tickles its funny-bone, arouses its ribilities.

And there seem to be plenty of things about this part of the world that other sections find funny. At this moment of writing, I have no doubt, the columnists in New York and points west are wailing to concoct witty japes and wisecracks about us. But it isn't funny to us. It is pretty tragic. What Gog and Magog were to ancient London, what the Vendome column is to Paris, that statue of Gambirini to Milwaukee—or is it Chicago?—and the Liberty Bell to Philadelphia, the statue of Civic Virtue to New York City—all of this and more is the Sacred Cod in the descendants of the original immigrants and their successors. It is what the ancients used to call a Palladium, that which nothing is more sacred.

"A Hundred Dainty Dishes From a Cod" Around it was built the New England cuisine. We of old Massachusetts Bay know how to cook codfish in more ways than any other people on earth. The Hotel Men's Association, now meeting in Boston, would love to put on a demonstration of "A hundred dainty dishes from a cod," if only in proper memorial recognition of our lost symbol. Fried cod, boiled cod, cod cheeks and sounds, baked cod with stuffing, will do for a beginning.

The local chowder of milk, fried cod, potatoes, and cod—though there are some who prefer haddock—is a port-manteau meal, all the calories and vitamins in one. What would be the Saturday evening or the Sunday morning baked beans—delicious as it is in itself—without the codfish cake or the fish ball fried in deep fat?

The old inhabitants of Massachusetts Bay were a sturdy race. Who can tell how much of their sturdiness they owed to the codfish? It is said that they dug clams all winter in order to have strength enough to haul cod in the summer, and hauled cod all summer to have strength enough to dig clams all winter. That is good, save that it leaves out the codfish, fruit of what the mistaken Homer used to call "the unharvested sea." Unharvested! When it produced for Massachusetts the richest harvest of all.

It has been said in us in reproach that on ceremonial occasions we are wont to eat "Cape Cod turkey," meaning nothing more or less than the codfish. We deny the allegation and despite the allegation. We can eat turkey when we wish, but there are times when we prefer cod. When Gloucester has learned how to pack and freeze that best of comestibles, however far we may be from the salt water we need never be without our fillets of fresh cod, our strips of salt cod, our frosted cod, and even our ready-to-eat codfish cakes—just add a gas stove and serve!

How About the Legislators Who could have been so low down as to have sneaked the Palladium? The blame was put joyously and enthusiastically on the Ha'vard boys, those ingenious playboys who are so delighted to serve as scapegoats for any exploit involving nerve, a disregard for law and order, and a cockeyed wit. But why should they go so far afield, when Cambridge is full of Puritans ready to take the blame? Does not old John Harvard need painting again? Has not the clapper in the chapel been restored? What of Lampy's bits? What of Kitty's whiskers? Are there no protestors in bedevil? What of those Harvard Square professors who would be the better for the workday? Why should the boys go so far from home for their deliv'ry?

It is reported to me that an old Boston pal, gazing with a mournful and lack-luster eye on the present Legislature, as it sits in session, scanning that heterogeneous and conglomerate mass of gentlemen hitherto unknown to fame, remarked: "What a gang! Better keep an eye on the Sacred Cod. I wouldn't trust 'em with it!"

But why should a legislator stoop to trifle with a piece of varnished wood, nicely carved, when there are so many other tempting things—not nailed down? No, I prefer to think that the rape of the Cod is the work of public enemies of another sort.

Maybe the Virginia legislators have the vague idea that our legal and financial system is mysteriously bound up with the symbolic codfish. Perhaps, they think, the codfish is our amulet, our lucky piece, our charm, which, once removed, would carry our luck with it. Maybe they will bury it somewhere in Richmond, as their fathers used to hide their silverware from the Yanks, in the despairing hope that we shall lose our luck and that Virginia justice shall henceforth be unmolested by Yankee law.

Or maybe—and this is likely—the Probationists have stolen it. Codfish is well known to be thirst-provoking. One piece of salted codfish and you can drink Massachusetts Bay dry. Or in default of Massachusetts Bay, any sizable brewery. The very sight of the Sacred Cod hanging high in the chamber of the House of Representatives can't help rousing a watiful and reminiscent and sympathetic thirst in the throats and palates and esophagi of our legislators. Remove that symbol and codfish may yet be scarce off! The Probationists are almost desperate enough for that.

Maybe the Old Cod Faces the 15 Per Cent Cut It is all very dreadful, of course. One pictures the universal conatation when the dread deed was discovered. One pictures the State House watch and the state police and the detectives and the newspapermen organizing a search through the cellars and garrets of the Capitol. Down below the crypts below, like the Bedlamers with lanterns and bluebushes seeking for Guy Fawkes. Up the rickety stair that leads to the lecture on the dome. Under the seats occupied by day by the august legislators—and finding nothing but wads of chewing gum. Into the very cool bins. The picture is too tragic to paint further.

Maybe, of course, the newspapermen needed a good live local story. I don't blame them. Everybody is beginning to get a little tired of Congress and the State Department. The gloss is beginning to wear off. The old-fashioned boredom that always used to when we hear the words "international agreements," "international conference" is creeping over us again. What we need is a good and strictly local scandal. If I, for my sins, had to make journalistic bricks out of the State House story, I'd be inclined to use this.

But probably, it wasn't stolen at all! Probably Gov. Ely had it removed to be cut down 15 per cent. We shall have it back again, deflated but still the essential wooden codfish.

Tulips

The tulips are in bloom again.
As every passer-by can see.
A lovely sight of red and white
And bronze and purple pageantry.

Brave warriors of hope are they
Who need and sway beneath the sun
And seem to say, "Let come what may,
Our duty here once more we've done."

"We shall not see the roses bloom
Nor long observe the breath of spring
But brave of heart we play our part
Each one of us a lovely thing."

"What if in two brief weeks we pass
And to the changing season bow,
And row by row to death we go?
We have our share of glory now."

"Gaze on us, weary passer-by,
Enjoy our beauty while you may,
And like us give, while you live,
Your utmost best to every day."
